THE TWENTY CENTURY STYLISH LOOK...

The 2CV fourgonnette is the very first car with a front-wheel drive configuration. It became quickly iconic because of its close relatives from the 2CV, its qualities and its numerous derivatives from the 20th century. The 2CV fourgonnette has been back on stage during 3 decades from 1951 to 1977, date on which the Acadiane replaced it.

Some call it «TUB», name used to qualify its short-lived ancestor. The truth is the type H, the first mass-produced front-wheel-drive van, extends its ancestor spirit. Presented in 1947 and marketed in June 1948, it became successful to artsans, merchants, hospitals, postal services and even villains... Little by little, the H type has invaded the roads of France.

THE « PIG NOSE », A VINTAGE MASTERPIECE...

When we talk about old commercial vehicles, we think of the Citroën Type H or the Renault Estafette. But few people mention the «Pig's Nose», a nickname rightly given to the Peugeot D3. In 1950, Peugeot began to market its first traction vehicle. Named Peugeot D3A, it was quickly taken over by the various coachbuilders. Its inside comfort is kind of rough and rudimentary !

The New Beetle has become an icon of the automotive world in the same way as its ancestor the Volkswagen Beetle. An inimitable style with Californian influences which was the result of the extravagance and enthusiasm of creative people who were able to carry out their project from start to finish. Its aesthetic drew attention and made it a notable vehicle of its time.
